Chief Executive

Good morning Colleagues,

Regulators are known to work to fix problems but today with this new website – it is much more than that. It is a bold move, a pro-active approach to meet the changing demands of our stakeholders, be it:-

- Licensees in search of the forms;
- Public in general in search of knowledge on financial services in Mauritius; or
- Potential investors seeking information on our jurisdiction and the way the Commission operates

This Website's ease of use and design is an efficient solution to take advantage of the new technological infrastructure and it will also greatly improve transparency.

For the Commission, it will be an effective communication tool – at present, to disseminate information and in future with more interactive features.

I am particularly pleased with the team which has avoided taking the easy route of simply doing more of the same.

Of course, all this takes time and resources. I would like here to recognise previous leadership and the Board for approving this project.

Let me also recognise that the launch today is the result of planning hours, input from many and diligence shown by various clusters to ensure that we have the correct information. All those involved have demonstrated sound project management, team work – innovation – leadership - qualities which are essential for the success of any enterprise.

The Commission is proud of the new website and we thank the Policy team and all those who have contributed towards the success of this project.
